GOOD LOOKS SAVED HER.

A Young Woman With Beautiful Hair Had a Way of Stealing.

A young lady employed by a gold and silver smith in New York has only her good looks to thank for the fact that she was allowed to resign without being prosecuted for theft. She has an extraordinarily fine head of hair, which she allows to hang loosely over her shoulders and nearly down to her waist. From time to time it was noticed that the gold used in the room in which she worked did not go as far as it ought in making jewelry for the clients, which are most carefully protected, there was a distinct leakage. Steps were taken to subject the employees to a more rigid search, but no discovery was made until the young lady with the long hair quarreled with her roommate over a love affair, and in a fit of jealousy her rival gave away the most interesting story.

The young lady had kept her hair well greased, and then while at work would frequently pass her fingers through it casually, as though it were a matter of habit. By the process she accumulated a good deal of gold dust in her hair and sometimes dropped some diamond chips as well. Every night she combed over her locks with the smallest of tooth combs, carefully collected the peculiarly purified treasure trove and sold it without any difficulty. She broke down completely when taxed with the offense, made restitution as far as she was able, and her tears and promises were so profuse, that she was then allowed to depart in peace, although her employers somewhat inconsistently took measures to prevent her obtaining further employment in the business in which she was an expert. —New York Cor. St. Louis Globe.

A Well Worn Bond.

A curiosity in the shape of a Delhi town bond for $500 was turned in to the town treasurer a few weeks ago. It was punctured so full of pinholes as to be almost unrecognizable, and it bore other evidences of hard usage. As soon as its genuineness was determined, however, the money was paid on it, and a county official made an investigation. Its late owner finally admitted that he had carried the bond for years pinned fast to his under-shirt, and that as he changed his shirt quite frequently the bond had become full of pinholes. —Delhi (N. Y.) Herald.

An Acrobat's Experience.

The acrobat who made an ascent in Paris and was supposed to be lost escaped after a thrilling experience. He intended to make a short ascent, but was caught by a violent up-rush of current and carried 10 miles in 45 minutes. He was obliged to cling to the surface of a waterfall in the Gironde district before he made a landing. —Paris Figaro.

John Henry pleaded with Anella, And all his passion tried to tell her. She said, "John H., your words you waste, Your teeth betray a want of taste, Your breath offends me, so I say, Use SOZODONT or stay away."

THE PENNSYLVANIA STRIKERS.

Some years ago the coal and iron barons of Pennsylvania, while preaching protection for American labor and American industries, imported, under contract, the cheapest labor they could find in the old world. These laborers were numbered as convicts in the large prisons. Each individual displayed his number in a conspicuous place on his person and in that way was identified in the mills or mines in which he was employed. He was furnished a hotel in which to eat and sleep and it generally took him two or three years at the starvation wages allowed him to pay the expense of getting across the Atlantic in the steerage of an emigrant vessel. He was not only virtually, but actually, the slave of the iron or coal baron, who imported him, for at least two years after he landed in the United States.

This Pennsylvania method of protecting American labor became so notorious that Congress, at the instance of labor organizations, passed an act prohibiting it. Numerous violations of the law have been reported at various times, but only in a few instances have the barons been convicted and fined.

In a few years the miserable serf imported from Hungary or where ever labor could be procured cheapest, became dissatisfied and rebelled against his task masters. As the hut in which he lived and the land on which it was situated belonged to the barons, he was evicted. Vivid illustrations of scenes at these evictions were pictured in Harper's and Leslie's illustrated papers at the time they occurred. Sick women and starving children were carried out of the huts and off the lands of the barons and left by the road side.

Now the men whom they imported years ago are plaguing the barons, and a reign of terror prevails in parts of the coke and mining regions of Pennsylvania. They are the most lawless and violent of the strikers. They destroy life and property and are being shot down like wild beasts by those employed to protect the works and the men who have taken the places of the strikers. The tragic scenes at the Carnegie works in 1891 are being reproduced in a dozen places and scores of men have been killed. This condition of affairs is deplorable, but it was predicted years ago when the men were imported by the barons to supplant free labor and enable them to swell their profits.

As the strikers are determined that their places shall not be filled by others at less wages than they demand, and the authorities are equally determined to protect those who desire to work, the situation is extremely critical. The arrest of some of the leaders of the strikers has caused a temporary cessation of hostilities, but the strikers say the end is not yet.

THE AMERICAN MONETARY CONFERENCE.

Congressman Caminetti of California has introduced a joint resolution in the House of Representatives to provide for an All-American Monetary Congress. It authorizes the President to invite all the nations of the Western Hemisphere to a conference on the financial question. It recites the fact of the community of interests existing in the Western Hemisphere; the depreciation in the price of silver; the default of Guatemala; the danger that Mexico and Central and South American governments may take similar action, and it asserts that the various interests of the United States are threatened with loss because of the decline in silver. In view of these facts the President is requested to invite representatives of the American republics to meet in conference in Washington.

The conference shall be for the purpose of devising means to obtain relief from the conditions brought about by the demonetization of silver. It is authorized to draft treaties, to be submitted for ratification to the several nations represented, relative to establishing and maintaining such a standard as will restore permanent financial conditions, protect their common interests and secure recognition of silver from the nations of the Eastern Hemisphere.

Some time since a resolution proposing a monetary conference of the American Republics was introduced in the Senate. It suggested the adoption of an international silver dollar which would be a legal tender at its face value from Canada to Patagonia. This, it was contended, would bring all the nations on this continent into closer relations with each other and advance our commercial and manufacturing interests by turning the trade of Mexico and South and Central America from Europe to the United States. This resolution has been permitted to sleep in the Senate, but possibly the introduction of the Caminetti resolution in the House may result in getting it out of the pigeon hole where it quietly reposes.

CIVIL SERVICE REFORM.

Senator Morgan has introduced a bill to reorganize the State Department. Its object is to take the foreign service and department work out of politics, provide educational qualifications for appointments, make service continuous, provide for promotions and make removals only on proof of misconduct or inefficiency.

This is a step in the right direction, but reform should not stop at the State Department. Every official in the Government service should be prohibited, under penalty of forfeiture of office, from taking an active part in political conventions. Men who are paid by the people to perform official duties should not be permitted to devote their time to promoting the interests of party. The founders of the Government wisely provided that no person holding a Federal position of any importance should be eligible for Presidential electors. To-day there is an army of 120,000 Federal officials and there is a strong sentiment against their participating in nominating conventions. It was said that Federal officials renominated Harrison for President at Minneapolis, and that ex-Federal officials renominated Cleveland at Chicago.

THE EVIDENCE ALL IN.

The Pollard-Breckenridge Case Drawing to a Close.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—The attendance of elderly men with Puritanical faces has fallen off greatly with the conclusion of Colonel Breckenridge's cross-examination. Dr. Parsons was called in rebuttal, the desire being to establish the handwriting upon the paper alleged to have been attached to the clothing of Miss Pollard's child. Dr. Parsons testified that the slip shown was the identical one which was pinned to the child's clothing, and that the words, "Please name my baby Dietz Dawson," were in her handwriting.

Mary McKenzie, a middle-aged colored woman, was next put on the stand. She testified that the baby spoken of was born in her house, the mother giving her name as Mrs. Hall. The birth was attended by Dr. Parsons. Witness had gone to the asylum with Dr. Parsons to leave the child there.

"Did Mr. Hall ever visit Mrs. Hall?" "Sometimes."

"Did you ever see him?" "Not until to-day. I recognize him by the child," responded the colored woman looking directly at the gray-haired Congressman, who sat before her.

The defense did not care to cross-examine Aunt Mary.

Mrs. Lucretia Maria Miner, landlady of a fashionable boarding-house on Lafayette Square, was brought to the stand. Her account book showed that Miss Pollard arrived at her house on August 31, 1892, the day on which plaintiff claims Colonel Breckenridge first broached the subject of marriage after the death of his wife.

The mysterious four volumes of Irving which figured in that part of the case centering about Norwood convent and in which the disputed Christmas card had been found were placed on the witness stand.

Then Attorney Carlisle walked to the stand and took the oath. Mr. Carlisle proceeded: "I am able to swear that from the time I took this book from my bookcase until I discovered the Christmas card no other hand but mine and that of my sister touched it. The Christmas card had on it handwriting which you have seen. There was also an invisible note and pressed rose leaves. When I found them my client was sitting in an opposite corner of the room and my colleague, Mr. Johnson was some distance away. No one but myself could have put these things between the leaves of the book when our party was there, and I say to you gentlemen, on my oath, that I did not do it."

Miss Pollard was again on the witness stand this afternoon and made a number of denials of allegations by the prosecution. The testimony is now all in.

SUICIDE OF ADAM MCLEAN.

The Treasurer of Nye County Kills Himself—His Accounts are Short.

Adam McLean, County Treasurer of Nye county, Nevada, was found dead Monday morning at Belmont, and an investigation brought forth the fact that he had committed suicide. As far as known he was despondent from sickness and reported short in his accounts over $5,000.

McLean had the respect and confidence of every one, and his death was a shock to the citizens of Belmont and friends in Austin, where he was well known. He was County Treasurer of Nye county for over twenty years. It is said that he has in the neighborhood of $15,000 on his books of money borrowed from him.

A Series of Accidents.

Miss Lena Bidwell of Stockton, Cal., who spent the legislative winter at Carson visiting the Misses Rickey met with a peculiar series of accidents at her home last week. She was thrown from her horse and had her right ankle fractured. She was placed in a carriage to be taken home when the horses ran away throwing her out and breaking her left arm. Her injuries are serious although not necessarily fatal.

Church Notice.

Services at the Congregational Church Sunday morning and evening. The morning subject will be "The Necessity of Obedience to the Law of Christ." Evening: "Thoughts on Our Recent Revival."

Jack Crowder, an associate of gamblers and thieves, a Pinkerton detective, was found dead at Denver yesterday with his face black and blue, having been strangled to death. It is thought his associates discovered his true character and killed him to hide any evidence he might have had against them.

Telegraphic Notes.

Spanish pilgrims to the number of 115,000 are on their way to visit Rome. At Homestead yesterday 5,000 recruits joined the industrial army which is led by General Coxey.

Reports at Washington indicate that the wine crop of Italy is the greatest on record. The French wine crop is also large.

The Lake county, Cal., commissioners yesterday decided to ignore the prohibition law enacted by the last Legislature.

Three train robbers were hanged at Newport, Mo., yesterday. They robbed a train on November 3, killing the conductor. On the scaffold they acknowledged their guilt.

Extensive preparations are being made at Venice for the meeting of Emperor William and King Humbert of Italy. It is believed that the latter will visit Queen Victoria.

Congressman Jere Simpson is preparing a joint resolution proposing the co-operation of the United States and Canada in building canals connecting the Great Lakes with the Atlantic Ocean.

At Omaha yesterday Judge Dundy declared that if only the salaries of the employees of the Union Pacific railway were affected by the cut in wages last August and not the officials that the railroad company must restore the old rate.

The evidence in the Pollard-Breckenridge case yesterday was confined mainly to the question of the identity of the founding child which was left at the asylum with the scrap of paper pinned to its dress bearing the words "Dietz Dawson."

All was quiet at the scene of the Connellsville strike yesterday and it is believed that the arrest of the leaders has broken the backbone of the insurrection although the strikers claim that they are only resting preparatory to renewed efforts.

At Milwaukee yesterday Judge Jenkins rendered a decision on the motion made by the chiefs of the railway organizations for a modification of his Northern Pacific strike order. The decision covered the question whether a court can grant an injunction to restrain employees from striking. The decision declared that it was not the province of the court to assume a part in a contest between capital and labor. It may be true that the aggregate power of combined capital is fraught with danger to the Republic. It may be true that the aggregate power of combined labor is fraught with danger to the peace of society, but if danger exists from either of these causes it is within the province of the Legislature to determine the remedy, but it is the duty of the courts to restrain warring factions so that society shall not be injured. If the acts threatened to be done are unlawful, such as the interference with the operations of the threatened railway, which if carried into effect, would paralyze business and check commerce, then it is the duty of the courts to restrain by injunction if the appropriate remedy.

INFLUENZA,

Or La Grippe, though occasionally epidemic, is always more or less prevalent. The best remedy for this complaint is Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

"Last Spring, I was taken down with La Grippe. At times I was completely prostrated, and so difficult was my breathing that my breast seemed as if confined in an iron cage. I procured a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and no sooner had I begun taking it than relief followed. I could not believe that the effect would be so rapid and the cure so complete. It is truly a wonderful medicine."—W. H. WILLIAMS, Crook City, S. D.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists at 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

A Weak Digestion

strange as it may seem, is caused from a lack of that which is never exactly digested—fat. The greatest fact in connection with appears at this point—it is partly digested fat—and the most weakened digestion is quickly strengthened by it.

The only possible help in Consumption is the arrest of waste and renewal of new, healthy tissue. Scott's Emulsion has done wonders in Consumption just this way.

WEATHER BULLETIN.

Warm Weather and a Dangerous Storm. Copyrighted 1894 by W. T. Foster.

St. Joseph, Mo., April 7.—My last bulletin gave forecasts of the storm wave to cross the continent from April 10th to 14th, and the next will reach the Pacific Coast about the 15th, cross the western mountains by close of the 16th, the great central valleys from the 17th to the 19th, and the Eastern States about the 20th.

This will be of more than usual force, of wide extent, a dangerous storm, and will probably develop tornadoes and be accompanied by an electric disturbance. It will probably develop its greatest force in and west of the Mississippi valley, and if accompanied by tornadoes, they will probably strike some part of the country lying west of the Mississippi and south of Dakota and Minnesota. This storm will cause severe weather generally in the United States and Canada.

Several days of warm weather will precede this storm, and a warm wave will cross the western mountains about the 15th, the Great Central valleys about the 17th, and the Eastern States about the 19th. The cool wave will cross the western mountains about the 18th, the Great Central valleys about the 20th, and the Eastern States about the 22d. This cool wave will be quite severe in the upper Missouri valleys about the 18th or 19th.

THE TORNADO.

Our earth—in its "long breaths," caused by an unusual accumulation of electricity, or the ether of space, through a combination of electro-magnetic forces, suddenly brought on by the ever varying positions of those electro-magnetic bodies, the moon and planets—first inhales the ether, as man does air and fishes water, and then exhales it. The latter effort sometimes produces the tornado.

During a period of many weeks the earth's volatile elements evaporate, as do similar elements of a comet when the latter is approaching the sun, and thus a vast amount of energy is stored up in our earth's envelope. This energy comes to the earth through its transient, periodic and permanent high barometers, the down-pouring air and electric currents of which evaporate the waters from the oceans, lakes and rivers, and this moisture returns in the shape of rain, hail and snow.

When the energy thus stored up has expanded the atmosphere to its fullest extent, and the cause has passed its zenith of strength, the ether begins to return to space through the transient, periodic and permanent lows, and then a mighty rush of ether upward destroys life and property, carries moisture to immense heights, where it freezes, and, falling back through the mists, accumulates, forming the great hail-stones, while the loss of a part of that etheric or electric force which ever holds our atmosphere in expansion, brings a collapse of the elements, a falling together of the particles that form our atmosphere, and we have the so-called "cloud burst," or immense downpour, sometimes termed the water spout.

Men with much science but little brains have led the masses to falsely believe that tornadoes are produced by heat, when in fact the heat, often felt near but not in the tornado, is only a result of electric tension before such tension has resulted in expansion.

The heat theory is a fundamental error resulting in a catalogue of blunders on the part of orthodox physicists. To rightly understand the tornado we must reject the teachings of orthodox scientists and the schools as to the sun being a hot body, and instead we must understand that all the heavenly bodies are electro-magnets, that light and heat do not come from the sun, as such are but local results, caused by the forces from the sun coming in contact with matter in our atmosphere.

That force from the sun will be best understood by most people when we call it electricity, but it is a grade of electricity more remote from ether than a gas is from a granite stone, and this sun force, which results in light and heat in our atmosphere, must not be confounded with that original electricity which we call ether. The schools and orthodox scientists also teach that the friction of the wind causes the intense electric displays we often see in the tornado. The reverse of this is true. Electric currents carry the atmosphere with them and constitute the cause of winds.

THE TYRANNY OF AUTHORITY.

These may appear to be bold and reckless statements, but in reply it may be said that orthodox scientists never invent, never discover. On this point the New York Electrical World says: "The history of thought shows that from Aristotle to the present, all great advances have been due to those who rebelled against the tyranny of authority. A lesson taught by the story of Faraday and Maxwell is the great importance of keeping the mind free from the trammels of authority and of academic methods of thought."

Atmospheric signs of the tornado are numerous, many of which cannot be distinguished from those of other severe storms. When the cumulus clouds fly very rapidly and the sky between them is of the deepest blue, a severe storm is surely in progress, though it may be five hundred miles away. The wind and clouds move toward the storm in such cases. Dark green clouds indicate great energy that will probably soon be manifest in a destructive storm. Dark clouds with a bulbous appearance demand immediate attention, and all should go to the tornado cave when they appear.

Sometimes the heat previous to a tornado becomes almost unbearable,

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

and a sickly, exhausted sensation takes possession of all. At times no air stirs, and then it comes in puffs as from a heated furnace, and the heat is not like the ordinary heat from the sun's rays.

When the tornado comes in eight all will know what it is without any description being given here. Prenatal education has instilled into the human race an instinct that enables us to know a tornado on sight as readily as the day-old chick knows its deadly enemy, the hawk. But immediately preceding the tornado, and one of the last indications before the destroyer arrives, is the sand clouds. They are grey colored, frizzly edged, fly before the wind with the speed of an arrow, very low, often just above the tree tops. When these appear it is full time a place of safety was found.

Tornadoes generally move from southwest to northeast because they usually occur in the southeast quadrant of the storm center.

These storm centers whirl against the sun, or against the hands of a watch when the latter is placed face upward, and hence the wind and cloud movements in the southeast parts have a general movement toward the northeast and carry with them the tornado, which is a whirl within a whirl, like eddies on the outer parts of a whirling water pool.

"THE SPIDER AND THE FLY."

Electric and Mechanical Effects New and Magnificent.

M. B. Leavitt's new spectacular production will be presented at McKisick's Opera House next Thursday evening, April 12th.

The "Spider and Fly" can certainly be classed as a distinct novelty, containing as it does the brightest features of spectacle, pantomime, comedy, opera and high-class vaudeville.

The costumes have been lavishly supplied. The scenery, electric and mechanical effects are all new, and said to be magnificent. The company was mostly recruited abroad, though the several American artists, who were prominent in last season's cast, have been re-engaged. The chorus will be unusually attractive; numerous novelties have been added, and the music, songs and specialties are all new.

This is the same company that presented this gorgeous spectacle at the World's Fair, Chicago, for one hundred nights to crowded houses. The same scenery, costumes and effects, of which there are two carloads, will be seen here. The transformation scene in the last act illustrating American historical events, from 1842 to 1893, is said to show the progress made in the scenic art. There are fifty people in the production, engaged from both continents, including comedians, vocalists, pantomimists, premier danseuses, specialty and burlesque artists. The famous Alhambra Ballet of sixteen pretty dancers from the Alhambra, London, and the original French dancers from the Folies Bergere, Paris, are among the numerous features offered.

THE INDUSTRIAL ARMY.

The San Francisco Contingent on the Way East.

The San Francisco contingent of the Industrial Army broke camp at Oakland yesterday and arrived at Sacramento about 12 o'clock. A substantial dinner was provided for the men by the city, and their number was augmented at the Capital by 200 recruits. Arrangements were made at Sacramento with the railroad company for transportation to Ogden and a special train carrying several hundred of them left the city. The men are said to be well-behaved. They committed no depredations or acts of violence at Oakland, where they were camped for several days, nor at Sacramento.

The intention of the railroad company is said to be to take them through to Ogden on passenger time. The train on which the men are traveling was reported to arrive here at 4 o'clock this morning.

A REMARKABLE COINCIDENCE.

Two Roommates Attacked About the Same Time With Paralysis.

A most singular coincidence happened in Virginia City Wednesday night. Felix Darrah and Dave Tyler, two men well along in years, occupy the same room in the lodging house of Mrs. Cavanaugh.

About 1 o'clock Wednesday night Tyler was stricken with paralysis which affected his left side. Some time after he called his roommate to move him and the latter, on getting up to assist him, was stricken with paralysis on his right side. He fell to the floor where he lay in the cold helpless until the next morning when he succeeded in attracting the attention of a lodger.

It is believed that both men will recover as the attack in each case is light.

Gave Straw Bonds.

Frank Burnham, formerly of Genoa, is in trouble in San Francisco and has been arrested on charge of being implicated in procuring false, or straw bonds for the release of prisoners. He swore to the possession of property that is found, by search of the records, to belong to some one else. Burnham says he was paid from $5 to $10 for every bond he signed, and that the men who paid him assured him he was doing nothing that would get him into trouble. Burnham has given the names of the men who hired him to sign the bonds and they will be arrested and prosecuted if they can be found.—Courier.

"How Well You Look"

Friends Surprised at the Wonderful Improvement.

"G. L. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.: 'Dear Sir:—I take pleasure in writing the good I have received from taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. Every spring and summer for six years or more, my health has been so poor from heart trouble and general debility that at times life was a burden. I would become so emaciated and weak and pale that my friends thought I would not live long. I could do scarcely any work at all and had to lie down every few minutes. I began getting worse in January, losing my flesh and feeling so tired. I thought I would try Hood's Sarsaparilla and I am happy to say I am in better health than I have been for a number of years. My friends remark to me: 'Why how well you look.' I tell them it is Hood's Sarsaparilla that has done the work. I would have all suffering humanity give this medicine a trial and be convinced. This statement is true to the letter.' Mrs. JENNIE DECKER, Watseka, Ill."
